Baby Safety Month

September is Baby Safety Month, a time to emphasize the importance of keeping our little ones safe, although it's a priority all year long. Every room in the house can present potential hazards for babies, from the paint on the walls to the temperature of the water, and even the cleaners stored under the sink. Fortunately, there are several steps parents and caregivers can take to enhance baby safety:

- Secure large furniture to prevent tipping.
- Install gates at the tops and bottoms of stairs.
- Cover electrical outlets.
- Remove blinds & curtains with long or looped cords.
- Install smoke detectors & test twice a year.
- Place a fire extinguisher on every level
- Use safety latches on cabinet doors & toilet
- Adjust the temp on your water heater
- Remove toys with small parts that could be swallowed.
